U. S. WILL HONOR MARNE VICTORY ON LAFAYETTE DAY

ANNIVERSARY FALLS ON SAME DATE AND ANNUAL AMERICAN DEFENSE DAY IS PLANNED CELEBRATION IN COURT HOUSE PARK

DOUGHERTY TO SPEAK

Will Give Address of the Evening. Bowler City Band Will Play And Community Chorus Will Sing.

The proper celebration of Lafayette Day on September 6th, the 161st anniversary of the great French hero and friend of the American colonies in every large city in the United States is today being planned by the American Defense Society. This is also the anniversary of the first battle of the Marne in 1914, which resulted in stopping the German invasion before it reached Paris. The Chamber of Commerce is undertaking the work here.

The Janesville celebration will be held in the evening at eight o'clock in the rear of the Court House in Court House Park. An excellent program has been prepared by the committee in charge in co-operation with Professor Thiele. W. H. Dougherty will make a patriotic address and the Bowler City Band has prepared a program of American and French music. In addition a community chorus of one hundred male voices will, under the direction of C. H. Bearmore, sing American and French patriotic songs.

The Lafayette Day National Committee which numbers among its members Theodore Roosevelt, George W. Wickes, Charles J. Bonaparte, Caspar P. Goodrich, Joseph H. Choate, Jr., Moorhead Storey, Henry Van Dyke and Maurice Leon and Charles Stewart Davidson, issues a call today to the American people in conjunction with the American Defense Society which reads as follows:

"That the nation may celebrate this year, as it has in each of the past three years, the anniversary of Lafayette's birth, September 6, 1757, and of the battle of the Marne on the same day in 1914, we commend to all Americans the opportunity to honor the memory and deeds of one of the noblest heroes of the American Revolution by whose efforts France's sympathy for the cause of freedom was given effective expression at a crucial period in the struggle for American independence and also to commemorate the victory of the Marne which again the threatened cause of freedom was saved.

MOEHLNPAH TO OPEN CAMPAIGN AT CLINTON

H. A. Moehlennah, candidate on the Democratic ticket for governor, will attend a mass meeting at Clinton, Wis., his home town, Tuesday evening, September 10. The Democratic candidate will on that night make his keynote address of the coming campaign. The meeting has been arranged by friends of Mr. Moehlennah, and delegates from neighboring towns and adjacent counties will be there. An auto parade, three bands, patriotic songs, and an entertainment of Mr. Moehlennah by the mass meeting, will be in order.

The Democratic candidate will immediately begin a tour of the state after his Clinton speech, and will campaign in every county during September and October. Mr. Moehlennah plans a whirlwind campaign for the governorship and declares that the next governor of Wisconsin will be a Wilson democrat.

EIGHTY PER CENT WHEAT RULING NOW IN EFFECT

For every four pounds of wheat flour purchased, one pound of substitutes must also be bought and it is to be hoped that the housewives observe this rule when buying thereby saving a great amount of unnecessary trouble. Rice, barley, buckwheat, oats, and rye flour are substitutes.

Library Extends Hours: Beginning today, the local public library will resume its regular hours of 10 a. m. to 8 p. m.

WOULD INCREASE THE TOBACCO TAXES OF EDGERTON DEALERS

H. V. Cowles, deputy income tax assessor for the Madison district, is leading the fight to increase the tobacco assessment at Edgerton. He has been temporarily blocked by the decision of the board of review at Edgerton that the rolls have been closed and cannot be legally opened. The matter will probably go to the courts for determination. Eighteen tobacco firms in Edgerton would be affected by the increase.

Tobacco is one of the products that has increased in value at astonishing rates during the past year. Early in the spring the assessors of the state started to assess tobacco at the following rate: Case filler, $35; binder, per case, $55. In May the state tax commission held a conference and directed that the rates be increased and that $75 be assessed at $55 and binders at $75. In all of the tobacco sections of the state, with the exception of the city of Edgerton, this was followed.

The tax commission decided that something must be done in the case of Edgerton. Cowles appeared before the board of review at the city of Edgerton and asked permission to file information to substantiate the necessity for the increase. The board of review is composed of Joseph T. Ledy, George W. Doty and T. B. Knapp, city clerk. The hearing was set for August 8 and information was filed by Cowles against eighteen tobacco dealers in Edgerton. When Cowles appeared before the board of review he was told by City Attorney George W. Blanchard that the assessment could not be opened for increase.

Nevertheless, witnesses were sworn and much testimony was offered by Cowles to show the necessity of the increase. Just as the board was about to put City Clerk Knapp on the stand to testify, the hearing was halted and a continuation was asked and granted until August 16. Upon the morning of the 16th, the state tax commission held a conference and City Attorney Blanchard gave testimony as to the method of the assessment. After all the testimony was in, the board decided that it would be illegal to open the assessment rolls to consider a change in the assessment.

Wants Figures Revised. Deputy Cowles served notice on the board of review that he would demand the $55 and $75 assessment rate.

It means an increase in the tobacco assessment of nearly $500,000 at Edgerton, said Mr. Cowles today. "The state will exhaust every means in getting this increase as the proper remedy for the tax roll of this city."

"Would this not mean a lower tax rate in the city of the assessment on tobacco is increased?" he was asked.

Cowles stated that the largest tobacco places were in the counties of Dane and Rock and that with the exception of Edgerton, all had placed $25.00 on the tax rolls at the $55 and $75 rate as ordered by the state tax commission.

$1097.75 COLLECTED IN MUNICIPAL COURT

August, 1918, was one of the busiest months the municipal court of Janesville has ever had. During the month just ended fines aggregating $1097.75 were collected. During the thirty-one day period some heavy fines were assessed and paid by the defendants.

The majority of the money collected was due to the heavy sentences given to men from dry towns who came to Janesville to get drunk. Shortly after this spring election Judge Maxfield, co-operating with Chief Chapman, stated that no mercy would be shown dry town drinkers.

With the advent of the first man from a dry town to be brought into court, on a charge of drunkenness, Judge Maxfield handed him the maximum sentence for first offense drunk. This sentence however, did not prove a warning to others from the dry towns and they continued to come and Judge Maxfield continued to fine them.

HELD FOR DRIVING MACHINE IN CITY WHILE INTOXICATED

Cecil Kenesey Of Beloit Arraigned For Driving Car In City While Intoxicated

Cecil Kenesey of Beloit was brought in the municipal court this morning for driving a car while intoxicated. Kenesey was arrested on Saturday while attempting to drive his car up Milwaukee street. He was in an intoxicated condition and was keeping the pedestrians on the street on a continual jump. He entered a plea of not guilty and his trial was set for September 9th.

Mr. J. Corney was assessed twenty-five dollars and costs for coming to Janesville to spend Labor Day and getting drunk. Edward Warner also came from a dry town and not having funds from a dry town, he decided to spend the day where he could get a few drinks. However, he did not quit when he had a few and as a result, he was arrested for being drunk. He was given twenty-five dollars and costs on his plea of guilty.

Tom Resters had a good time over Labor Day and he paid for it this morning in the court. He entered a plea of guilty and was fined thirteen dollars and costs. He paid his fine.

Edward Kiley was also brought into court for being drunk and assaulting an officer. He was given twenty-five dollars flat.

GAZETTE WILL SHOW RESULTS ON SCREEN

Arrangements have been completed by the Gazette for the showing of the election returns on a large screen opposite the office. With the many offices to be voted upon much interest is being manifested by the people of this city.

The polls will close promptly at eight o'clock, and the Gazette will give the returns as soon as the votes have been counted. In the country districts the polls close early. Returns will be received and flashed on the screen as soon as received.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl who has never been married. I have been with boys since I was a child. I thought it very wise to let only one boy come to see me. But there is one young man whom I like better than any of the others. He is about 25. He has come to like me very well, but today I learned that about the only thing he is making girls think he loves them when he does not, or at least seems not to do so. He has been with me for about twelve years he has been going with girls. He did the same thing. He would go with the girl for a long time, sometimes two or three years, then he would drop her, just when she thought the world of him. I would not love him, but I should stop now before it would be too late? I like this man. I would like all my friends and it would be very hard.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am 17. I am a pretty much more sophisticated than most of the girls of my age. I am not more than the rest. I think I should stop now before it would be too late? I like this man. I would like all my friends and it would be very hard.

me some good advice, as I am alone in the world. B.D.Y.H.

You are the victim in a case of supreme selfishness. No man should go with a woman years without marrying her. Even if there is no engagement, people always think such an affair serious and other men stay away. Give the man up now. He will miss you, but you will not miss him. It is a companionship and deserves to be. Not too late now to make that man your brother if people understand that you have given up this man indefinitely.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am 16 years old and ready for my senior year in high school. I have a brother two years my senior who recently enlisted in the army. At the time of his departure he was with a girl in a neighboring town. Since he has left I have been going with her a good deal and she seems to have turned her affections toward me. Should I notify my brother of this or go ahead without his knowledge?

(2) In walking down the street with two girls where should the boy walk? To be fair with your brother you should not go with the girl in his absence. When he gets back and is on the ground to fight his own battle for his honor, he will find it difficult to fight with him. Give her up and find another girl. There are so many attractive girls that you should find no difficulty.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am 33. I am a pretty much more sophisticated than most of the girls of my age. I am not more than the rest. I think I should stop now before it would be too late? I like this man. I would like all my friends and it would be very hard.

There is usually an inward cause for condition, such as indigestion. If the material effect is gained by the following treatment, it would be well to get your physician to give you treatment. Apply the following lotion:

Staphylococcus, zinc, two grains; compound tincture of lavender, eight drops distilled water, one ounce. Banish all rich and greasy foods. Wiping of the face occasionally with diluted alcohol (25 per cent strength) is beneficial in the case of oily skin. A few drops of ammonia or a pinch of borax in the water with which the face is washed is also helpful.

EVERYDAY ETIQUETTE

A man asked to be one of the sponsors at a christening ceremony should reply by a written note or by calling in person.

Reader: In acknowledging an introduction it is better to say "How do you do, Mr. B." than to say "Pleased to meet you."

Grace B: In calling on a widow or unmarried woman, a married woman leaves one of her own cards, but when calling upon the widow of her husband's are left.

particularly for the mollycoddles who still imagine drafts are deleterious in some vague undefined way, is that the rate of slight respiratory ailments ("colds," as the vulgar call them) among children is able to be at school rooms ventilated by the fan system than in classrooms ventilated by open windows where the temperature of air was kept about 50 degrees.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Does motorcycle riding injure the health of a man or woman in any way? Is it the vibration or the pressure of the air against the rider that is harmful? (S. P.)

Answer:—There is nothing unhealthy in motorcycle riding.

How long after a bite is there any danger of hydrophobia developing? Can it develop after three months from the time of the bite? (A. J. W.)

Answer:—If the dog or other animal is kept under observation by a veterinary surgeon for ten days and no symptoms appear in the animal in that time, there is no danger of rabies from the bite. The time elapsing from the date of the bite to the appearance of the first symptoms in man is anywhere between fourteen days and a year.

Redheads and Blackheads: Please inform me whether or not white hair can be changed to black with any hair cream. (O. A. M.)

Answer:—Yes. There is no such thing as black hair. So-called "black" hair is very deeply pigmented with a reddish pigment.

Household Hints

BRUNNEN HINT. Breakfast. Cornmeal Mush. Plain Omelet. Warm over Potatoes. Coffee.

Luncheon. Fruit Salad (Canned Pears and Apples). Cocoa. Ginger Snaps. Dinner. Fish Turbans (Halibut). Egg Sauce. Potato Souffle. Peas. Pickled Beets (home canned). Coffee.

Wholesome Bread—Two and one-half cups sour milk, one-half cup New Orleans molasses, one heaping teaspoon soda, two cups corn meal, one cup barley flour, one cup raisins or currants, salt, one-half cup oil. Then place in oven and brown. This makes two good loaves.

Old-Fashioned Mustard Gingerbread—One cup molasses, two tablespoons butter, one teaspoon soda dissolved in three tablespoons hot water, one teaspoon ginger. Add flour to make dough, which may be kneaded, but not too hard. Roll into sheets, mark with a fork, bake quickly. While hot mix a tablespoon hot milk with a like amount of molasses and wet the top. In time, the other half of the prohibition will also be removed, but that may be so gradual that we shall hardly savor it.

And oh, the joy of ordering meat without half the double prohibition that impossible prices and food restrictions have imposed. Perhaps, ministers of justice, the other half of the prohibition will also be removed, but that may be so gradual that we shall hardly savor it.

Poetic Justice. And one thing is sure—the resurgence of joy in simple things will come in greatest measure to the woman who has been doing her share. The women who have managed to evade regulations and have boasted, for instance, of having all the sugar they wanted, or the women who have grumbled and hung back, according to the measure of their selfishness, will be denied this experience.

THE TABLE. Corn Bread—One cup flour, one cup corn meal, one tablespoon sugar, one teaspoon salt, two heaping teaspoons baking powder, one cup milk, one egg. Mix dry ingredients; beat egg, add milk, and pour all into dry part and stir in; add fat and beat well; take about twenty minutes in hot oven.

Cornmeal Flap Jacks—Two-thirds cup cornmeal, one-third cup rye flour, one-quarter teaspoon salt, three-quarters teaspoon soda, one egg, one-half cup sour milk, one-half cup tea-spoon melted shortening. Mix and sift dry ingredients. Add the beaten egg and milk to the mixture. Mix thoroughly. Add melted shortening and beat well. Drop from a spoon onto a hot greased griddle. Brown on one side, turn and brown on other.

Tales of the Friendly Forest

Let me see. In the story before this I promised to let you know what Uncle Lucky told his little bunny nephew, for I hope you remember how he was shot in the right hind leg by the big farmer. Well, the kind old gentleman rabbit sat down by Billy Bunny's bed and began to tell him a story, and this is how it went:

"Once upon a time there was a little bunny who lived in a great big castle, for he was the son of a king. You know, king of all the bunnies. But this little rabbit prince never had any fun, for his father wouldn't let him play with anybody but bunny princes, and there was only one bunny prince near this little bunny I'm telling you about was often dreadfully lonely. So one day he slipped away from the castle and went deep into the woods. And after he had hopped along for maybe a mile and maybe a lot more he said: 'Oh, dear me, I wish there was somebody to play with!'

"I'll play with you," said a tiny voice. But the little rabbit couldn't see anybody.

"Who are you?" he said, and he looked under a stone and behind a tree and up in the sky.

"Here I am," said the tiny voice again, and a little fairy jumped out from behind a fern and waved her silver wand.

"Oh, my, but you are small," said the bunny prince. "If you were only a bunny, I could play with you. But you're a fairy, and fairies are never seen a case of rabies in man. Household Hints

BRUNNEN HINT. Breakfast. Cornmeal Mush. Plain Omelet. Warm over Potatoes. Coffee.

Luncheon. Fruit Salad (Canned Pears and Apples). Cocoa. Ginger Snaps. Dinner. Fish Turbans (Halibut). Egg Sauce. Potato Souffle. Peas. Pickled Beets (home canned). Coffee.

Wholesome Bread—Two and one-half cups sour milk, one-half cup New Orleans molasses, one heaping teaspoon soda, two cups corn meal, one cup barley flour, one cup raisins or currants, salt, one-half cup oil. Then place in oven and brown. This makes two good loaves.

Old-Fashioned Mustard Gingerbread—One cup molasses, two tablespoons butter, one teaspoon soda dissolved in three tablespoons hot water, one teaspoon ginger. Add flour to make dough, which may be kneaded, but not too hard. Roll into sheets, mark with a fork, bake quickly. While hot mix a tablespoon hot milk with a like amount of molasses and wet the top. In time, the other half of the prohibition will also be removed, but that may be so gradual that we shall hardly savor it.

And oh, the joy of ordering meat without half the double prohibition that impossible prices and food restrictions have imposed. Perhaps, ministers of justice, the other half of the prohibition will also be removed, but that may be so gradual that we shall hardly savor it.

Poetic Justice. And one thing is sure—the resurgence of joy in simple things will come in greatest measure to the woman who has been doing her share. The women who have managed to evade regulations and have boasted, for instance, of having all the sugar they wanted, or the women who have grumbled and hung back, according to the measure of their selfishness, will be denied this experience.

THE TABLE. Corn Bread—One cup flour, one cup corn meal, one tablespoon sugar, one teaspoon salt, two heaping teaspoons baking powder, one cup milk, one egg. Mix dry ingredients; beat egg, add milk, and pour all into dry part and stir in; add fat and beat well; take about twenty minutes in hot oven.

Cornmeal Flap Jacks—Two-thirds cup cornmeal, one-third cup rye flour, one-quarter teaspoon salt, three-quarters teaspoon soda, one egg, one-half cup sour milk, one-half cup tea-spoon melted shortening. Mix and sift dry ingredients. Add the beaten egg and milk to the mixture. Mix thoroughly. Add melted shortening and beat well. Drop from a spoon onto a hot greased griddle. Brown on one side, turn and brown on other.

Tales of the Friendly Forest

Let me see. In the story before this I promised to let you know what Uncle Lucky told his little bunny nephew, for I hope you remember how he was shot in the right hind leg by the big farmer. Well, the kind old gentleman rabbit sat down by Billy Bunny's bed and began to tell him a story, and this is how it went:

"Once upon a time there was a little bunny who lived in a great big castle, for he was the son of a king. You know, king of all the bunnies. But this little rabbit prince never had any fun, for his father wouldn't let him play with anybody but bunny princes, and there was only one bunny prince near this little bunny I'm telling you about was

LONG PANEL MAIN FEATURE OF GOWN

The gown pictured is of navy blue satin and exploits the long panel in both back and front. Tiny buttons define the edges of the panel, which is weighted across the hem with heavy twisted silk fringe. The sleeves are long but slightly full from the wrist up and there is a suggestion of drapery at the hips. The normal waist line has a crushed giraffe. The V-shaped neck is finished with a white collar.

SIDNEY (Great Inventions Series) "Adam," said Eve petulantly, "you'll spoil that snake! The idea of allowing him to sleep coiled around your waist like that! Of course I know the animals are as good as we are, but I don't think it's right to let them know it, too."

"But he's such an affectionate little thing," replied Adam apologetically. "Aren't you, Sidney?"

And he stroked the rattle's beautifully spotted head, and Sidney flicked his fingers fondly. (See Quantum Reel's "The Warm Blooded, Era of Serpents.")

"Oh, sometimes I think you're positively silly," snapped Eve. And she strode haughtily off among the skunk trees. (See Stamboul Minsk's "Early Domestic Quarrels.")

Shortly after that the apple incident occurred, and Adam and Eve were expelled from the Garden.

"I feel chilly," muttered Adam, embarrassed. And he arched behind some dangle bushes and waved himself a pair of trousers out of danger.

There was a rustling sound. It was Sidney. The faithful snake had followed him all the way from the garden. With sudden inspiration Adam placed the snake around his waist, and Sidney, clinging there in his favorite position, kept the trousers up. Such was the invention of the belt.

On Little Girl. Got So Bad Could Not Rest at Night. Very Cross and Fretful.

Trouble Lasted Two Months. One Cake Cuticura Soap and Box Ointment Healed.

"Our little girl had eczema over her body. It started on the back of her neck in the form of a rash, and kept spreading until it got on her head. It got so bad that she could not rest at night from the itching and burning, and she would scratch so that the skin became inflamed. It caused her to be very cross and fretful.

The trouble lasted about two months. After using one cake of Cuticura Soap with one box of Ointment she was healed." (Signed) Geo. Colman, 305 W. Winfield St., Morrison, Ill., August 8, 1917.

AFTER THE WAR IS WON.

Has it ever struck you what a lot of fun we are going to have after this war is won, doing all sorts of common place little things?

For instance, making all the white bread we want; what fun it is going to be, just heaping in the white bread with airy substitutes, and knowing that one is doing nothing out of the way.

And again, when the sugar that is being hoarded up by lack of tonnage in distant ports, flows into the country, and fancy how we will revel in ones and cakes and jellies and candies and (say it with a bated breath) two heaping teaspoons of sugar in our morning cup of coffee.

It will be fun to make a cake, and surely, just standing in the pantry making a pure white loaf of bread will be a great adventure.

And once it was only a commonplace of the day's routine, it will be able to spend whatever money we want, and luxuries one wants with one's hands.

And, having something of which the servant has need.

Afternoon Tea Will Be Reinstated.

And, too, feeling perfectly free

(that is, except for any prohibition of the pocketbook) to drop in, any time, for afternoon tea or to have a group of friends enjoy, at one home, the hospitable tea hour which patriotism has now made the worst of.

And oh, the joy of ordering meat without half the double prohibition that impossible prices and food restrictions have imposed. Perhaps, ministers of justice, the other half of the prohibition will also be removed, but that may be so gradual that we shall hardly savor it.

And one thing is sure—the resurgence of joy in simple things will come in greatest measure to the woman who has been doing her share. The women who have managed to evade regulations and have boasted, for instance, of having all the sugar they wanted, or the women who have grumbled and hung back, according to the measure of their selfishness, will be denied this experience.

OPEN WINDOWS VERSUS FANS

Many school buildings are equipped with a limited degree, by means of fans which are supposed to maintain a good circulation of air through the rooms. At the same time, manufacturers of such apparatus and ventilating engineers insist that they give the most perfect ventilation.

It costs considerable to install a fan system of ventilation and is not considerable to run the fans. But is the fan system of ventilation preferable to open windows? Let us see.

A few days ago the Bureau of Health of the City of New York City found that among 5,333 pupils, children in classrooms with closed windows and mechanical ventilation (plenum fan system) were more subject to respiratory ailments than were children in classrooms ventilated by open windows. In the closed window, mechanically ventilated classrooms the rate of respiratory ailments occurring in children was 11 per cent greater than in schoolrooms per cent greater than in schoolrooms ventilated by open windows and kept at about the same temperature—68 degrees. This ought to be enough to save any school board from the folly of fans, that is, if the schoolroom has any windows.

A still more interesting datum, particularly for the mollycoddles who still imagine drafts are deleterious in some vague undefined way, is that the rate of slight respiratory ailments ("colds," as the vulgar call them) among children is able to be at school rooms ventilated by the fan system than in classrooms ventilated by open windows where the temperature of air was kept about 50 degrees.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Does motorcycle riding injure the health of a man or woman in any way? Is it the vibration or the pressure of the air against the rider that is harmful? (S. P.)

Answer:—There is nothing unhealthy in motorcycle riding.

How long after a bite is there any danger of hydrophobia developing? Can it develop after three months from the time of the bite? (A. J. W.)

Answer:—If the dog or other animal is kept under observation by a veterinary surgeon for ten days and no symptoms appear in the animal in that time, there is no danger of rabies from the bite. The time elapsing from the date of the bite to the appearance of the first symptoms in man is anywhere between fourteen days and a year.

Redheads and Blackheads: Please inform me whether or not white hair can be changed to black with any hair cream. (O. A. M.)

MORRIS MILLER

The Cubs, as they stand ready to tackle the Red Sox in the world series, present an odd combination. Not a single member of the Chicago team which topped a pennant a few years back remains on the team to once again reap the glory and cash that goes with the world title. But the spirit of the Windy City outfit is made up mainly of world series veterans.

With George Taylor in the box the Cubs would show this list of players who have been tested in the big show:

Taylor in the box.
Killebrew behind the bat.
Fred Merkle and Charley Deal in the infield.
Duke Paskert and Leslie Mann in the outfield.

Six of the nine men in the field would have little to fear from nervousness over the importance of the series.

The Red Sox, recently a pennant winning aggregation, boasts of more veterans of the big hit.

They are:
Strunk, McInnis, Schanz, Bush, Ruth, Mass, Hooper, Scott and Agnew.

Agnew, the team's chief adviser, has served his time in the series games. Five have been in the big show with the Sox.

Many of the players who will oppose each other this year have been opponents in the series in bygone days.

Here is a list:
1911 Merkle vs. McInnis. (Strunk was on the bench during this series.)
1912 Merkle vs. Hooper.
1913 Merkle vs. Bush, Schanz, McInnis and Strunk.
1915 Paskert and Killebrew vs. Hooper, Scott and Ruth. (Mays did not play.)
1917 None.

Something new was pulled on Benny Kauff in the fourth inning of the Cubs' game with the Cubs in Chicago recently when Lew McCarty was ordered by John McGraw to bat for the fourth time. It was the first time since his debut into the major leagues that Benny had to sit by and watch some one else pitch. He is a fairly old man as a result of a seven weeks' absence from the game. Benny accepted the new order of things with a cheerful smile.

The move proved to be a good one for McCarty, who is suffering with a "charley horse" in his right leg, developed a two-bash hit that drove in the deciding run of the game, though he could hardly hobble as far as second base.

In the first inning of a recent game in Chicago between the Cubs and Cubs, Phil Frazier made a throw to first base to catch Max Fleck napping, but Heinie Zimmerman had his head down at the moment and didn't see the ball coming, with the result that the ball sailed on to the grand stand and the runner advanced to second base. Such a lapse on the part of the great Zim was unusual that it is worthy of special mention.

Like every other player, has his faults, but one of them is not a tendency to lose sight of the ball.

Joe Ray has made up his mind to compete at the national track and field championships at the Great Lakes naval training station on Sept. 15. The stocky "city star" has been putting himself through a full course of training stunts on the quiet.

Charles Fick, former All-Ireland, is being loaned to the Cubs at second base and may cover the keyhole sack for Mitchell's team in the world's series.

Wesley Oler, Jr., former Yale unit vector, leader, has been cited by Gen. Pershing for bravery in the big battle "over there."

A new supply of attractive literature and folders on travel in the Pacific Northwest has just been received by the Gazette Travel Bureau.

"Old Johnny, Oh!" the smartest and most brilliant musical comedy of the season under the personal direction of John T. Fisher will come to the Myers Theatre on Friday, Sept. 6.

"Old Johnny, Oh!" is the really one musical comedy sensation of the year. Its tremendous popularity is due to the delightful story, as well as the dainty and colorful production replete with tripping melodies and interpreted by a notable cast of players.

In the special company which will appear here will be Miss Billie Hall, Evelyn Weaver, Bernice Hays, Frank Cummings, Mark Wilson, Bobbie Allen, and a chorus whose charm and beauty are well worthy of special mention.

FRED MERKLE HAS LAUGH ON FELLOWS

[BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS]

New York, Sept. 2.—Please excuse Mr. Fred Merkle while he indulges in a hearty guffaw.

Fred feels a bit joyful these days, and you can't blame him a bit for his mirthful attitude.

It wasn't long ago that Merkle was a plain, every-day goat of the common garden variety. He was a target for all sorts of jokes from the stands, thanks to a lapse of memory he suffered when the Giants and the Cubs met in the memorable series which decided the National League pennant in 1908—the series in which Merkle forgot to touch second.

But look at Merkle today. There he stands, wearing a Cub uniform—the uniform of the 1918 National

FORTY YEARS AGO

The Janesville Daily Gazette, Sept. 3, 1878. The school buildings have been cleaned up during the summer and will be in excellent condition when school opens Monday.

The well on the high school grounds is saving in some. To prevent any further trouble a six-inch pipe is to be put in it and pump used instead of a bucket.

G. A. Shurtleff will open his new restaurant, next to Conrad's grocery store, on Main street, tonight, and will be ready to serve Riley's ice cream and other edibles, including candy. Mr. Riley has sold his business to Mr. Shurtleff.

He will remain with Mr. Shurtleff for the time being at least, and this is sufficient guarantee that the best of ice cream will be ready for customers. The new place is fitted up nicely and will no doubt be a popular resort.

Charley Potter, the popular ticket agent of the Court House, is recovering from his illness and is about on the streets again, though his shadow is at yet not a very heavy one.

to give his life in service for his country. At the close of these services a patriotic meeting will be held, when there will be singing of patriotic songs, addresses, etc., and every patriotic citizen is asked to be present at these exercises.

Sept. 2 being Labor day, the stores were closed at noon.

DARIEN

Mr. Mapes, and family, 103 Calhoun street, arrived here Saturday and Sunday nights at the home of Mrs. Lizzie Silverthorn and were entertained at Sunday dinner at the F. H. Dennis home. Mr. and Mrs. Cory are packing up goods preparatory to shipping them to Florida, and they are planning to leave here about the middle of the month for their southern home.

All were indeed glad to see Floyd Selok at church on Sunday. Mr. Selok was granted a thirty-six day leave of absence from the Camp Grant on Saturday, returning Sunday afternoon. Floyd is looking fine and expressed himself as being well pleased with his trip. His fine day played with proved to be a very quiet day with but few autos on the street as this was to be an autoleazy day.

Bessie Curry, a visitor in Orlando, was at church.

Claude Harrison spent Sunday and Labor day at his home here.

Will Grenawald and family spent Sunday with friends out of town.

Oscar Brown and John Cowan each took a load of furniture to Jacksonville on Monday for Mr. and Mrs. Waid and are now planning to begin housekeeping in that city.

The Mission Circle will meet on Saturday at 8 o'clock.

Darlen, Sept. 2.—Miss Blanche Wetmore of Jacksonville spent the week end with Miss Florence Plisk.

Love in a Hurry

When you're just the man I've been looking for," said Carolyn. "I want you to help me, will you?" She jumped up eagerly.

"The rose also," "What appears to be the trouble?"

"Why, there are two women here that I'm just dying to have your opinion of. Come out with me and I'll introduce them to you, and let you talk to them, will you?"

"You bet I will. Just let me see 'em!" I guess if anybody can do 'em up, Jones Hastingsbury can!"

And with that he followed her out into the other room, and Carolyn delivered him over to Rosamund Gale.

CHAPTER XIII.

Hall, meanwhile, was near the boiling point of his rage. He had been deceived by Carolyn's cleverness. He was furious at her, at himself, at everybody. Here were two women, now, who had a hold on him—and before long there would be three! Never! Hall swore it with a round oath. Mrs. Roylton, at least, would not triumph. She hadn't Carolyn's beauty, she hadn't Rosamund's disarming beauty. She was, when it came right down to it, more or less of a fool. Why not ignore her, and make a last attempt to win Flo? He looked up at the clock. Good heavens! It was already twenty minutes to twelve! And his four millions were no nearer than ever. He jumped up impulsively, and strode to the door.

The company had about finished supper. The little orchestra had started up again, and had begun on a new turkey-trot. As a proof of its insidious charm, who but Jones Hastingsbury himself had succumbed! He was dancing with the fair Rosamund. Mr. Doremus, still surrounded and petted by the three pretty actresses, was telling a funny story. There was a sharp squall of laughter as he finished. Where the devil was Flo? Hall peered from behind the portieres, so as not to be seen himself. In a moment she emerged from the stockroom with a plate of ice cream, and, smiling, passed it to Mr. Doremus. Then she looked up, and caught Hall's eye. He beckoned and she carelessly approached the studio.

As she crossed the threshold Hall caught her by the wrist and drew in. She looked up at him, a little frightened.

"Flo!" he exclaimed wildly. "Flo! I can't stand it any longer. Don't keep it up any longer, dear! Say, 'yes,' can't you? Flo! for God's sake!"

She looked him up and she looked him down, and anger was in her eyes. "I gave you my answer, Mr. Bonistelle. Didn't you understand me, this afternoon?" she backed off, preparing to leave.

He seized her again. "Flo! I won't take no for an answer. I love you too much!" He fumbled in his pocket and drew out the ring. "Here, take this. Flo! wear it, won't you? And, as soon as I can get Mr. Doremus in here, I'll put another one on your finger that'll make us man and wife!"

She took it, and tossed it across the studio. It bounded along the floor. "No, thanks, Mr. Bonistelle! You'll have to excuse me, I'm busy."

"But heavens, Flo, look at the clock! It's nearly twelve! I have only fifteen minutes more! Don't turn me down! Oh, I want you so, Flo!—won't you?"

She turned on him with scorn. "Oh, that's why you're in such a hurry, is it? I thought so. Take one of those three women you have proposed to—they'll do for your purpose—they'll help you out, any one of them. You have only to say the word. Whistle and they'll come to you. There's Mrs. Roylton, now! Hurry her! You've got ten minutes left—go ahead, I don't care!"

"I'll send her in," she'll make you a good wife—she's had a lot more experience than I have! Good luck!"

Hall, left alone, walked up and down the studio angrily. He was so engrossed with his thoughts that he did not see Mrs. Roylton, who had entered a moment after Flo left, until, turning suddenly, he all but ran into her. Rona, beaming, effusive, held out both her hands, caught his and laid her dark head against his shoulder.

"Oh, Hall!" she breathed.

Hall tried unsuccessfully to free himself. "What's the matter now?" he asked.

She looked fondly up into his face. "Oh, Hall, didn't you understand what I said over the phone?"

A sudden thought came to him, a desperate expedient. Any stick to beat a dog with; any excuse, however ridiculous, would do for a quarrel with this clinging, sickening female. He must get rid of her. So, quick as a flash, he took up her words and plunged into a histrionic rage.

"Oh, I understand it right enough. That's the trouble, I understand it too well. Well, you've put me out of my misery, all right. Thank God, you did it while there was time for me to escape worse!"

"But I don't mean that, Hall, really!"

"No, you mean you only wanted to lure me on—get me to propose, and then throw me down! I know! All a woman cares for is to fool some man—any man will do, I suppose, so long as her vanity is satisfied, and she can have his scalp to wear at her belt! Isn't it shameful what a woman will do, just for the moment's cruel pleasure? You have no sympathy, no tenderness, no heart—you're nothing but a mass of insane female conceit, that's what you are! Thank God I found it out in time. I say! Oh, I did think I loved you, Rona, I admit; but I was a fool to believe in you. Now, it's all over!"

He stood before her, shaking his finger savagely. "It's all over, and I'm glad of it! I'm well rid of you, Rona Roylton, and it will teach me a lesson! I'd just like to tell you what I think of you, but you're my guest in my house, and unfortunately I'm a gentleman, and so I can't do it. But there's one thing I can say, and that's 'Good evening!' Mrs. Roylton, and you'll have to excuse me, for I have my guests to attend to!"

Almost winded with this extravagant fury, he turned to make his exit as speedily as possible, but she was too quick for him. Seizing his arm, she looked him straight in the face, her eyes filled with tears.

"Why, Hall Bonistelle!" she exclaimed. "You're crazy! Why, I'm going to accept you!"

He dropped like a log upon a chair, in amazement. She had demolished his whole towering pose at a word. For a moment he was unable to speak.

Then she looked at him very archly. "Hall," she said, "don't you think I'm prettier than usual tonight? Or do I imagine it because I'm so awfully happy?"

The question pricked him into life. He looked at her coldly, and in desperation made another attempt to goad her into anger.

"By jove, I didn't think a woman could—well, a woman will do anything to get what she wants, then, won't she? She'll pay any price, and suffer any indignity! Good Lord, haven't you any pride, Rona, for heaven's sake? Haven't you any sense of shame? Tell me, is there anything you wouldn't do for money, Rona Roylton? Let's have it!"

"Why, Hall, dear!" she replied, with big innocent eyes. "I don't know what in the world you're talking about; but I'll tell you one thing that I wouldn't do—I wouldn't give you up for all the money in the world!"

"Well, can you beat it?" he gasped, addressing a Spanish chair.

"Ah, Hall," she continued, "when I once consent, I go fast. Really, I'd like to be married to you this very night, if you only had a marriage license."

"A what?" he cried, thunderstruck. "A marriage license, you know. Of course that's always necessary before—"

"By Jiminy Christmas!" he thundered, staring in front of him. Rona was forgotten, everything was forgotten except that, through his stupidity all now, was lost. A marriage license! Not once had it occurred to him—the whole sublime comedy had been played out in vata. The four millions—Jonas Hastingsbury had won, after all!

He gave another look at the clock. It was four minutes to twelve. Without another word he stalked impetuously out of the room.

Mrs. Roylton, smiling, self-satisfied, stood for a moment in triumph. Her eyes were suddenly attracted by a shining object upon the rug, and crossing toward it, she saw a ruby ring.

Fuzzled at its presence there, she stooped and picked it up, examined it carefully, frowning, and then slowly placed it upon her finger. As she did so, Carolyn Dalrys burst into the room. Mrs. Roylton hastily turned the ruby inside and dropped her hand carelessly.

Carolyn came up to her, very eager. "Well, did you see Hall?" Mrs. Roylton nodded, smiling.

"Why! Didn't I say I would?" "For a moment Carolyn gazed at her, as if trying to penetrate her mind. She seemed as yet unconvinced. "You refused him, Rona?"

"Certainly!" Mrs. Roylton tossed her head.

"Still Carolyn seemed incredulous. "Well, how did he take it?"

"Oh, I said I liked him, of course, but I couldn't think of marrying him, and all that—he took on awfully, really, Carolyn; he begged me to have him, and said his life would be ruined and all that rubbish—you know, the way they always do."

"Said his life would be ruined, eh? What nonsense! You didn't say anything about—about me, or Rosamund

Dinner Stories

Little Jack was ill and the medical man had been sent for. His mother rushed up to the doctor as soon as he entered the house and started sobbing hysterically. "Calm yourself, my good woman," he said, "tell me what is the matter with the little chap."

"Oh, doctor," she wailed, "he managed to get hold of the dictionary, somehow, and chewed three pages out of it."

"Have you given him an emetic?" asked the medical man.

"Yes—oh, yes," was the mournful reply. "But I can't get a word out of him."

Former President Taft, in his younger days, when he was a law reporter, had been studying a case in Somerville, Ohio, and found he could not get back to his office that night unless he managed to stop a through express. So he wired to headquarters, "Wait, you stop the through express at Somerville to take on large party?"

The answer came back, "Yes."

The express was duly stopped at Somerville. The young lawyer rose, got aboard with his copy and the conductor said, "Where's that large party I was to take on?"

"I'm it," was the chuckling answer.

"Thirty cents for that bit of ice!" queried the man of the house.

"Yes, but there's no use kicking. Stoop mooning over it and put it in the refrigerator before it disappears."

"I wasn't mooning. I was just trying to compute the value of that pond I skated over so carelessly last December."

OLD AGE A CRIME!

Some people are young at heart and old at body, and others are old at heart and young at body. The latter are the ones who are the most valuable to society. They are the ones who are the most energetic and the most efficient. They are the ones who are the most successful in life.

In fact, old age is a crime. It is a crime against the future. It is a crime against the youth. It is a crime against the world. It is a crime against the human race.

Old age is a crime because it is a waste of life. It is a waste of the talents and abilities of the young. It is a waste of the energy and vigor of the old.

Old age is a crime because it is a burden on the young. It is a burden on the shoulders of the youth. It is a burden on the backs of the old.

Old age is a crime because it is a disgrace to the human race. It is a disgrace to the name of man. It is a disgrace to the name of woman.

School-Teacher Needed Brains

"I never have had such a 'God-send' come to me as when I took the first dose of May's Wonderful Remedy. I was afraid I would have to give up my school because of severe stomach, liver and bowel trouble which caused such a pressure of gas that I could not use my brain at times, and my heart would palpitate awfully. Since taking a treatment of May's Wonderful Remedy a year ago, all this has disappeared." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. J. P. Baker and druggists everywhere.
